

The Bad and the Beautiful (Take 2)

Tony Bennett & Bill Evans

Love is wrong, it sings a hopeless song
It longs for bitter disappointment and tears, and tears
It calls to all that used to be
And it yearns for someone who was tender but untrue
Love is blind, it's helplessly inclined
To bind itself to discontentment and fears, and fears
It on nights that might have been
Love needs nothing more to do
My darling, so I hold each little talking
We knew, we knew
Endlessly I unfold each word we've spoken
We two, we two
Love is mad, it's beautiful but bad
It gladly weeps when disillusion appears, appears
And so I cling to yesterday while I'm hopelessly in love
While I'm hopelessly in love with you

Lyrics provided by <http://counterlikes.com/>