

I Remember You

Jamey Johnson

I always thought
That one of the most important conversations
You could ever have in your life
Is the first time you talked to God
What would you say? I remember You
In the pages of a book
Lady read me once
In Sunday school I remember You
I studied every word
And I hid it in my heart
Just like You told me to
And a storm was rolled away
And everybody prayed
The day the angel sang
I remember You And while you're standin' there
On those tremblin' knees
[Incomprehensible] you hope God says back to you I remember you
I was there when you were born
I held your mamma's hand
And your daddy's too Oh, I remember you
I recall the very day
You turned against the Devil
And you cried out my name
And then a storm was rolled away
And everybody prayed
The day the angel sang
I remember You, You
I remember You, You
