

The Story of Beauty

Destiny's Child

Please dry your eyes, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
It's not your fault, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
You're not the one to blame
Soon it will be okay
One day you'll realize
Your beauty It was a Saturday
This cold afternoon
Inside this house there lived a frightened young girl
She didn't know what she should do
'Cuz she missed her mother so
She was left home all alone with her stepfather
Please dry your eyes, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
It's not your fault, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
You're not the one to blame
Soon it will be okay
One day you'll realize
Your beauty He touched her places
That he shouldn't have touched
He did some things to her
That he shouldn't have done
And she ran into her room
Paged her mother, 9-1-1
And the tragedy began
For this young girl
She told her mother, her family, and friends
No one believed her 'cuz before this had been
She was filled with hate and anger
Towards her stepfather
'Cuz he took her mother from her when they married Please dry your eyes, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
It's not your fault, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
You're not the one to blame
Soon it will be okay
One day you'll realize
Your beauty She looked for a father
In the men that she saw and
Thought that all she had to offer was her body

No one could figure out why
This young girl would live her life
In such pain and unhappiness
She was so beautiful She rebelled and one day the young girl fell in love with another man like her stepdad
He abused her emotionally and made her feel like she was worthless
Hope one day she'll realize
And see the beauty in her eyes
All she needs is prayer and strength
She's beautiful Please dry your eyes, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
It's not your fault, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
You're not the one to blame
Soon it will be okay
One day you'll realize
Your beauty Don't cry, you're beautiful
It's not your fault, young girl
Don't cry, you're beautiful
You're not the one to blame
Soon it will be okay
One day you'll realize
Your beauty Don't hold your head down low
You've got so much, so much, so much, so much, so much to be proud of
You can still live your life
I promise you you'll survive
Girl I love you
You're beautiful

Lyrics provided by <http://counterlikes.com/>