

Sisters of Avalon

Cyndi Lauper

Felt someone calling me into the howling of the wind
I heard the reflection of a sound echoing through my skin
And a distant drum rumbling under ground gently guides me on Through my wild heart whispering to me The sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon She is awakening in dark swells and mystery

Unbridled nightmares powerful and running free

You could still hear her cries reverberating through the trees

For the trampled flowers, the daughters of Eve

The sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon They brought her in, in a new white dress

But the stain left an ache on her mother's breast

Now all that's left are the ghostly steps

From a distant corridor And a distant drum rumbling under ground

Gently guides me on through my wild heart

Whispering to me, to me, to me The sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon

Sisters of Avalon

The sisters of Avalon

The sisters of Avalon

The sisters of Avalon

The sisters come on, sisters come on, sisters

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://counterlikes.com/>