

Drunk On Love

Basia

I was dreaming when I jumped the lights
Busy scaling dizzy heights
Hummed a somewhat strangely familiar tuneMy eyes as wide as open books
And from my ears upon two hooks
A big smile was hanging there like a crescent moonIt sometimes comes as quite a shock
When the Gods of love
When the Gods of love decide to knockYou're in a state of disarray
Just when you least expect it
You'll never know a better dayDay dreaming fever taking over
No misdemeanour
Stone cold sober
The officer who stopped me said
"Lucky you didn't wind up dead"
And he guessed that I was over and aboveI hoped he'd only caution me
I made a plea for clemency
On the grounds that I was only there drunk on loveIt sometimes comes as quite a shock
When the Gods of love
When the Gods of love decide to knockYou're in a state of disarray
Just when you least expect it
You'll never know a better dayDay dreaming fever taking over
No misdemeanour
Stone cold soberDay dreaming fever taking over
No misdemeanour
Stone cold sober
It sometimes comes as quite a shock
When the Gods of love decide to knock
And leave you in a state of total disarray
Just when you least expect it, you'll never know a better dayYou'll never know, you'll never know
You'll never know a better day, yeah
You'll never know a better day
You'll never know a better dayDay dreaming fever taking over
No misdemeanour
Stone cold soberDay dreaming fever taking over
No misdemeanour
Stone cold sober
