Pour My Love

Marillion

Lids that close and time that slows the rapid eye There is no dreaming in the grave You'll never look into those eyes again In this world, In this worldSo bend your head The way that flowers bend their heads I'll pour upon it my love like rainBend your head The way that flowers bend their heads Love has died But love is gonna live again People change and they turn strange and so will I It makes no odds how we behave We'll never work out how to live in peace In this world, With this worldSo bend your head The way that flowers bend their heads I'll pour upon it my love like rain Love has died but love is gonna live again I'll pour upon it my love like rainIn a place where flowers rot and die In a place where truth lies down and shacks up with the lie There is still you, There is still you And longer than this life gives life to you Bend your head The way that flowers bend their heads I'll pour upon it my love like rainLove has died but love is gonna live again I? Il pour upon it my love like rain My love like rain, My love like rain, My love like rain.

Lyrics provided by http://counterlikes.com/