

Shakira

Everybody needs an anchor
 A little something that makes you stay
 An incentive, someone to fight for
 'Cause no one really needs so much space
 A couple years ago I was lonely
 I used to think that there was no God
 But then you looked at me with your blue eyes
 And my agnosticism turned into dust
 How well you know me
 That I don't care if the rest don't
 It doesn't matter to me, no, oh
 As long as you love me
 As long as we still have each other
 I knew we had something
 From the moment I met you
 And I knew we had something
 No one thought it could be true
 Hey, do you believe?
 Do you believe in destiny?
 'Cause I do as I did then
 When you were only 23
 God knows that I'm a good dancer
 My feet can move to the music he plays
 But there were times I asked for an answer
 When he was acting in mysterious ways
 And there were nights that I stayed up crying
 'Cause I was certain that things wouldn't change
 But then you came, and I saw you smiling
 Just like an angel, so beautifully strange
 And then you touched me
 It's like you were made for me, oh
 Like it was all meant to be, oh
 And I was sure that you would love me
 And that we'd always have each other
 I knew we had something
 From the moment I met you
 And I knew we had something
 No one thought it could be true
 Hey, do you believe?
 Do you believe in destiny?
 'Cause I do as I did then
 When you were only 23
 Always thought that I was fine, but I was wrong
 It was you, that one piece I was missing
 And I could do without you, but it'd be no fun
 I found you, and life was suddenly easy
 There ain't no worries now
 There ain't no feeling down
 I knew we had something
 From the moment I met you
 And I knew we had something

No one thought it could be trueHey, do you believe?

Do you believe in destiny?

'Cause I do as I did then

When you were only 23

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://counterlikes.com/>