

tear myself apart

Tate McRae

So it goes, my summer rose is cut and thrown my way
Petals fall and you don't call for days and days and days
You say, you say it's not my fault
You say nothing at all
Can you see my handshake harder's now than earthquake?
I'm left alone to tear myself apart
You make it look so easy, turn around and leave me
I'm left alone to tear myself apart
To tear myself apart
No concern for what you've burn, you say yourself "our place"
What survives are sharpened knives used to go right through the bone
You say, you say it's not my fault
You say nothing at all
Can you see my handshake harder's now than earthquake?
I'm left alone to tear myself apart
You make it look so easy, turn around and leave me
I'm left alone to tear myself apart
To tear myself apart
Tear myself apart
Can you see my handshake harder's now than earthquake?
I'm left alone to tear myself apart
You make it look so easy, turn around and leave me
I'm left alone to tear myself apart
To tear myself apart
