Sky Full of Clover

Beth Hart

Why do you carry a pocket of stone? Body and mind are tired of the load Still searching for shelter in your own restless thoughts Believing in anything still you are lost I will be there just look over your shoulder baby Longing to share a sky full of cloverCome to the grass where the orchids run wild See how they're laughing a land full of smile People in clover are holding up their hands Praising the holy one the wiser of man I will be there jut look over your shoulder baby Longing to share a sky full of cloverI'm not trying to make no contradiction I'm not trying to make you go my way I'm not trying to tell ya what I think ya need to know I'm still trying to figure out my own Said I'm gonna be there So now you say to me do I still have time to live out these Precious dreams that swell up my mind? Raise me then lay me down and humble my soul Wash me in patience I'll be whiter than snowI will be there just look over your shoulder baby Longing to share there's a sky full a sky full a sky full of clover
