

Coming Back In

Toby Lightman

Every time I try to walk away
You pull me back with all those things you say
And I find myself unable to leave
Do you have a clue to what you are doing to me? And now I'm singing the words
That I don't have the strength to say
And I am thinking about
The courage to let me walk away But I keep coming back in, coming back in, coming back in to you
Yes, I'm coming back in, coming back in, 'cause I know what you do
So I'm coming back in, coming back in
I'm coming back in to you, to you Always searching for that one reason
To run off with the tide, to change with the season
Always needing time to contemplate
The emotions I give, but you can't reciprocate
And now I'm singing the words
That I don't have the strength to say
And I am thinking about
The courage to let me walk away But I keep coming back in, coming back in, coming back in to
you
Yes, I'm coming back in, coming back in, 'cause I know what you do
So I'm coming back in, coming back in
I'm coming back in to you, to you Baby I don't, don't wanna come back to you
You just keep pulling me, pulling me in Why can't I stay away from you? Baby I don't, don't wanna come back to you
You just keep bringing me, bringing me back in Why can't I stay away from you? And now I'm singing the words
That I don't have the strength to say
And I am thinking about
The courage to let me walk away
And I am closing the door
To your face in my mind
And I am running away from this past
That I should leave behind, I should leave behind But I keep coming back in, coming back in, coming back in to you
Yes, I'm coming back in, coming back in, 'cause I know what you do
So I'm coming back in, coming back in
I'm coming back in to you, to you, to you Only if you want me to, I'll let you go
Only if you want me to
