

The Sun Never Shone That Day (Radio Edit)

a-ha

The sun never shone that day
From an early dawn the sky was grey
I never should have walked away
I know that now but I'm here to sayEverybody walks away
Everybody's led astray
Breaking every plan to stay
It happens all the timeThe sun never shone that day
From an early dawn the sky was grey
I never should have walked I know
I see that now but it's hard to showEverybody's got to go
Everybody tells you so
Everybody wants to know
Why it happens all the time
I can't see the point of turning everything upside down
I can't see the point of greeting everything with a frown
I can't see the point of painting everything black or white
I can't see the point of leaving everyone full of doubtThe sun never shone that day
From an early dawn the sky was grey
I never should have walked away
I know that now and I'm here to sayEverybody holds their own
Everybody lives alone
Everybody hogs the phone
It happens all the timeEverybody feels the strain
Everybody holds the pain
Everybody stays the same
It happens all the time
I can't see the point of turning everything upside down
I can't see the point of greeting everything with a frown
I can't see the point of painting everything black or white
I can't see the point of leaving everyone full of doubtThe sun never shone that day
The sun never shone that day
