

Pale Grass Blue

Enya

A silver hue on wings of blue
As all around me
Shadows dance in lightSun is high above
And winds are still enough
And all I want to do is stayAnd everywhere the blues
Are moving in the air
I see them in their flightSun is high above
And winds are still enough
And all I want to do is stayFor seven days
They make the sky
Look down upon them
As they go their way
Sun is high above
And winds are still enough
And all I want to do is stayFor seven nights
They wait the moment
For the morning light to come againSun is high above
And winds are still enough
And all I want to do is stayAnd one by one
They wander one by one
Meander never go astraySun is high above
And winds are still enough
And all I want to do is stayAnd so I stand and gaze
And so I watch the maze of blues depart the day
Sun is high above
And winds are still enough
And one by one they fly awaySun is high above
And winds are still enough
And one by one they fly awaySun is high above
And winds are still enough
And one by one they fly away
