As Your Friend (feat. Chris Brown)

Afrojack

I just cant live anymore like this My heart just opened up the door again Just watch me fly as I spread my wings Dont ask me why coz there are too many things And now were standing on the edge Looking like, "here we go again" I used to be your man but today I woke up as your friend...As your friend, as your friend, as your friend I woke up as your friend As your friend, as your friend I woke up as your friend Oh lil mama, I can feel your fire You poisonous lady, let me take you higher And I dont care if its a bad time Just label me the bad guy tonight And now were standing on the edge Looking like here we go again I used to be your man but today I woke up as your friendI came to party hoping that you would fall in love Dont mean to put no pressure on you Everybody loving madly And the DJ, hes getting drunk Trying to get next to youAnd now were standing on the edge Looking like here we go again I used to be your man but today I woke up as your friend As your friend, as your friend, as your friend I woke up as your friend As your friend, as your friend I woke up, I woke up as a friend As your friend, as your friend, as your friend As your friend, as your friend, as your friend I woke up as your friendAnd now were standing on the edge Looking like here we go again I used to be your man but today I woke up as your friend Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by http://counterlikes.com/