Half a Man

Joe Bachman

No Such Thing As Half A Man (A. Wood, J. Bachman, T. Southern)It's ok you don't know what to do When that red Marine Corps shirt Makes you ask how he got hurt He knows that you're not built to understand How to act or what to say Not to stare or turn away When you see what's missing in that chair And not the hero sitting there (CHORUS He ain't looking for your thanks Your pity or your tears If he had things his way He'd be back there instead of here His body may be broken But you can't shake his soul and From that chair he'll proudly take a stand Cuz there ain't no such thing as half a man He'll tell you the same thing they told him One wrong step in the sand One loud click and that was that He'll say it's all part of the job So, don't feel sorry for him He'd do it all again....(CHORUS)
