

Company

Melissa Etheridge

If you ask me I will say I' fine
All pink like birthday girls and valentines
Then the stillness of the night reminds
That I don't like to be alone
My thoughts are racecars, running round my head
Burst into flames and crash into my bed
Until I fall into a dream instead
All my love has turned to stoneAll I want is company
Someone to understand this misery
Send a reflection of myself to me
'Cause everybody needs some company
These times I'm living in just make no sense
Sometimes my face it's pushed against the fence
I wanna scream out in my selfdefense
But I don't want to be aloneAll I want is company
Someone to understand this misery
Send a reflection of myself to me
'Cause everybody needs some companyWhat is truth and what is fear
Will I find it under here
I know they're selling me a lie
But I'm not first in line to buy, first in line to try
I find some sanity on the written page
Well live is worth more than a living wage
I say the battle's over now, it's time to change
I wont ever be alone
All I want is company
Someone to understand this misery
Send a reflection of myself to me
'Cause everybody needs some company

Lyrics provided by <http://counterlikes.com/>