

In the Morning

The Coral

Shut the bedroom window in the morning
Go to the shop, make plans to be leaving
In the morning Thought I was sleeping, it was just a dream
An alley cat chewing on dead leaves
In the morning Out of the dark and into the light
When the morning comes, I will be all right When I leave, I try not to wake her
Tea and a toast to yesterday's capers
In the morning She wrote my name on a red telephone box
When I got there, she'd already rubbed it off
In the morning Out of the dark and into the light
When the morning comes, I will be all right
And all this time I've watched it change
But it's still the same
In the morning
In the morning
In the morning
In the morning
