

Heaven Can Wait

Charlotte Gainsbourg

She's sliding, she's sliding down to the depth of the world
She's fighting, she's fighting the urge to make sand out of pearls
Heaven can wait and hell's too far ago

Somewhere between what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the ground
She's hiding, she's hiding on a battleship of baggage and bones
There's thunder, there's lightening in an avalanche of faces you know
Heaven can wait and hell's too far ago

Somewhere between what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the ground
You left your credentials in a greyhound station with a first aid kit and a flashlight
Going to a desert unknown
Heaven can wait and hell's too far ago
Somewhere between what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the ground
