

'13: Big Enough for Both of Us

The Magnetic Fields

This thing is big enough for both of us
It throbs with love enough for two
Bet on the seasons to keep changing
Just like I keep on loving you Maybe you'd learn to like just being loved
Even learn to love me in some way
This heart is big enough for both of us
But you're three thousand miles away (Three thousand miles away)
(Three thousand miles away)
There's something big enough for both of us
It's part of my anatomy
You know I'd love to give it all to you
And you can have it all for free First time I saw you, I could feel a stir
Down in my special body part
I would like you to take it in your hand
But please be careful, it's my heart (Three thousand miles away)
(Three thousand miles away)
(Three thousand miles away)
This thing is big enough for both of us
It throbs with love enough for two
Bet on the seasons to keep changing
Just like I keep on loving you
