Just Remember

Sister Hazel

A crooked chimney standing in the middle of a field Once surrounded by the walls of work By laughter and by love, the sound of children playing And the sound of people saying, I love you, yeah youA crooked tree stands naked near the center of the field Barely rooted in the browns and grays of Earth That once was green, a place long since forgotten In a world of yesterday except by me, yeah meAnd oh, whose plan was this anyway And I never thought he would want it to be that wayIt once was beautiful, right here It still is beautiful, in here You once were beautiful, I hear I hear it can be beautiful, just remember A twisted little image in your perfect little world Of the chapter where it'd all begun About a song already sung, burnt around the edges Nearly faded, nearly gone, even you, yeah youA shiny building standing in the center of today Where indifferent people go to work Go about their pay, knowing they've forgotten In a most convenient way, yesterday awayAnd oh, whose plan was this anyway And I never thought he would want it to be that wayIt once was beautiful, right here It still is beautiful, in here You once were beautiful, I hear I hear it can be beautiful, just rememberAnd oh, whose plan was this anyway And I never thought he would want it to be that way It once was beautiful, right here It still is beautiful, in here You once were beautiful, I hear I hear it can be beautiful, just rememberIt once was beautiful, right here It still is beautiful, in here You once were beautiful, I hear I hear it can be beautiful, just remember, oh yeah
