Alesana

She haunts me in dreams
I see her silhouette
Dance across landscapes
Of golden light and autumn
In my dreams...Her soft eyes see
Through my tortured soul
Vanishing any hope for fantasy the thing I'd give, to prove myself to her, to make her see...
Jaded eyes awake
As her selfish words rain from such placid lips still I kiss her silken flesh
Frigid air leaves me breathless
Foolish agony fills my lungs
As I try to scream for her
I confess... I scare myself
Through the howling wind
On my knees, I cry
Listen to me...I'm broken by her silence
To a love unseen
Blood soaked feathers rained down
My wingless angel so
Broken falls gracefully from the sky
To waiting arms
To waiting arms
Frigid air leaves me breathless
Foolish agony fills my lungs
As I try to scream for her
I confess... I scare myself
Listen to me...Frigid air leaves me breathless
Foolish agony fills my lungs
As I try to scream for her
I confess... I scare myself
Through the howling wind
On my knees, I cry
Listen to me...such foolish agony fills my lungs as I try to scream for her jaded eyes wake to the sounds of my voice as I scream to her in dreams I've seen her silhouette dance across golden light and autumn... in my dreams...
Skies so burdened let her go... as cold rain falls
So does she my desires wither, broken once more often hands take one so fair
...She haunts me...
