Lonely Town, Lonely Street

Bill Withers

You can live your life in a crowded city You can walk along a crowded street But the city really ain't no bigger Than the friendly people, friendly people that you meetYou might be a sweet young, sweet young pretty pretty And at the dances you can't keep your seat But if dances don't lead to romances You might as well be born, be born with two left feetYou might be a sweet-toned sure 'nuff high-class talker You might be a stone, stone expert at kissing But it don't do too much good to be talkin' Brother, when there ain'n no, ain't nobody listenin' And if you are shy, just not much of a talker Don't impress the people that you meet You might as well be a lonely walker In a lonely town, on a lonely street

Lyrics provided by http://counterlikes.com/