

Love Will Be There

Emblem3

Sick of all the people talking about me
When they don't really know me
They don't really see the same as I see
Well, I know what I'm supposed to be
People show me love, but then they judge me
Why they gotta treat me so shady?
They think that they sit above all things
But really in the shadows they are drowning
I've had enough, had enough, had enough
But I'll never give up ()
When all else fails, all else fails
Love will be there, love will be there
And time will tell, time will tell
Who really cares, who really cares
All's well that ends well
And we made it through this hell
When all else fails, all else fails
Love will be there, love will be there
It feels like I'm living in a bad dream
But positivity is what will save me
They never said that it'd be easy
But until you put in work, you're not worthy
I don't know where the path may lead
But focusing on the light will help me see
I'm not scared to get my hands dirty
As long as I finish strong on my journey
I said, I've had enough, had enough, had enough
But I'll never give up
When all else fails, all else fails
Love will be there, love will be there
And time will tell, time will tell
Who really cares, who really cares
All's well that ends well
And we made it through this hell
When all else fails, all else fails
Love will be there, love will be there
Love will be there
