

Scars (feat. Missy Lanning)

Bryan Lanning

Insecure and unsure That's how these scars have left us Time and hope and touch is all it takes to heal these wounds If everything ran smoothly then we'd never be prepared.
These chances that we're taking and no feelings can be spared I hate how you look at me with those eyes
I swear everything, everything's fine
I hate how you look at me with those eyes
I swear everything, everything's fine
[At First I felt free
I felt like I was a teenager again
I could do whatever I wanted
I learned quickly that that feeling wasn't going to last I felt lost
I was just confused as to how I got myself to this place The friends I thought I had made weren't friends at all I was in trouble and I had no one
I had separated myself from my parents,
From my actual friends,
From anyone who really knew me at all
I pushed everyone away and I was Broken I was alone, scared and lost I laid on my closet floor just crying
and he found his way to me
I needed him and he needed me
He put me back together
The scars were so deep but we knew our love was strong enough
Our love was worth the fight
Our love is worth the fight] I hate how you look at me with those eyes
I swear everything, everything's fine
I hate how you look at me with those eyes
I swear everything, everything's fine
