

Dead Man (Among the Living Mix)

Dia Frampton

Thought I felt the water flooding in
I fought for hours, but then I caved in
And I knew the moment that I lost
When you held me in your arms And I know you won't let me dare forget you
I know that I'll never really want to Look at what you've done
Look what I've become
You're looking at a dead man
You're looking at a dead man I know it's too late
I feel good in my chains
You're looking at a dead man
You're looking at a dead man
Never knew that love could feel so torn
My arms are heavy, they're brick and bone
Had I blinked the moment that we met
You stopped my heartbeat. It didn't start again And I know you won't let me dare forget you
I know that I'll never really want to Look at what you've done
Look what I've become
You're looking at a dead man
You're looking at a dead man I know it's too late
I feel good in my chains
You're looking at a dead man
You're looking at a dead man Round and round and round and round we fall
Never gonna get around your walls
Don't you turn away from me
Don't you turn away from me again
Look at what you've done
Look what I've become
You're looking at a dead man
You're looking at a dead man I know it's too late
I feel good in my chains
You're looking at a dead man
You're looking at a dead man
