

Been So Long

Jorma Kaukonen

Been so long since I belong here
Ever since I lost my way
There was when I still had something
Specially for me to say, unto you Just to see you smile
You laugh and look at me
When you hold me tight in the morning light
And it's been so long since I felt at home in the mirror Was a time I once came running
Down the streets we used to live
That was when I still had something
Special there for me to give, unto you
Just to see you smile
You laugh and look at me
And when you held me tight in the morning [Incomprehensible]
Well, it's been so long since I felt at home in the mirror
