Let Me Be The Clock

Smokey Robinson

Ooh, hoo, ooh

Ooh, oohLet me be the clock for the time of your life, oh, yeah

Let me be the pendulum that strikes your chime

For the first timeI'm a cuckoo I know

Counting hours till we will be together

When the door to my heart will open

It's for sure that I will be hopin', hopin' that youWill let me be the clock for the time of your life Oh, yeah, baby, oh, yeah, babe

And let me be the pendulum that strikes your chime

For the first time, let it begin'Cause every moment we're apart is some good feeling wasted

A good feeling deep down inside me, told me

A good time for me to try to get you to hold me

Is right here and now

So let me be the clock for the time of your life

Oh, yeah, oh, yeah, baby

And let me be the pendulum that strikes your chime

For the first time, for the first time I wanna be your pendulum, baby

Striking your chimeHickory dickory dock

I want to be your clock

Just set me for lifetime

And I'll wake you up every morningWoo, woo, ooh, let me

Let me be the clock for the time of your life

For the time of your life

Let me be the pendulum striking your chime

For the first time and every time after that

'Cause I know where it's at

So let me, let me, let me

Let me, let me, baby, ooh, ooh

Let me be the pendulum striking your chime

For the first time, for the first timeOoh, ooh, ooh, ooh

Ooh, ooh, oohStrike your chime one time, baby

Strike your chime one time

Let me be the pendulum striking your chime

For the first timeLet me be the clock for the time of your life, oh, yeah

And let me be the pendulum who's striking your chime

For the first time and every time after that

'Cause I know where it's atSo let me, let me, let me, let me

Let me, let me, baby, ooh, ooh

Let me be the pendulum striking your chime

Lyrics provided by http://counterlikes.com/