

Hey, I Won't Break Your Heart

Corinne Bailey Rae

Here in the twilight of one endless summer, you've got me waiting like a teenaged girl.
My eyes wide with starlight,
but folded in my new dress, the memories.
Love is more hesitant a second time. Hey, I won't break your heart, like you broke mine.
This time around I won't cling to those paper crowns.
I won't tear you down.
This time I'll listen like it's love first secret.
So come bring love here with all its mistakes
Speak to me softly, like lovers do.
Here are the fragments I saved for you. Hey, I won't break your heart, like you broke mine.
Oh, it seems it's easy to love you.
You go to my head just like wine.
All the bitterness, it has left me.
So don't leave me standing here.
I won't be satisfied,
unless you come here and stay by my side. It goes so fast, it goes so fast.
All that I know is that I love you.
I won't break your heart, I won't break your heart.
