

Trying Times

Boyz II Men

Baby, I'm so glad you're here
'Cause I have so many things to tell you
So many things to talk to you about
'Cause you're the strength that I hold on to
And I hope I'm the strength that you hold on to
So we can strive together and be perfect
'Til death do us partThe night's gone, the morning's here
And soon it's time to talk about
Where we stand and where we plan
To be in life long years I need to knowI keep cryin' tears of joy
I guess that's what you're put here for
To change these tears of pain
To tears of happiness
Though the trying times
Trying to get the best of me
I'm still findin' time to show I care
With my crying eyes
I see contentment because of youTrials and tribulations build up walls
In front of faces made of stone
Yet we stand strong enough
To break the walls down to journey onBut I know if we just bond our hearts
There will be nothin' that will stand in our way
And we'll be together forever, everydayThough the trying times
Trying to get the best of me
I'm still findin' time to show I care
With my crying eyes
I see contentment because of you
Though the trying times
Trying to get the best of me
I'm still findin' time to show I care
With my crying eyes
I see contentment because of youThough the trying times
Trying to get the best of me
I'm still findin' time to show I care
With my crying eyes
I see contentment because of youThough the trying times
Trying to get the best of me
I'm still findin' time to show I care
With my crying eyes
I see contentment because of youThough the trying times
Trying to get the best of me
I'm still findin' time to show I care

With my crying eyes
I see contentment because of you
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://counterlikes.com/>