Minimal Affection

The Vaccines

In a world of minimal affection Can you give yourself in a word To a girl with a washed-out complexion She's a mutual friend of mineAnyone, anyone, anyone, anyone? Is there anyone there? You forget how to make a connection And you've wanted one for so longMoving on You don't have a lot in common When the world If you don't even know my name What a life if not for affection Felt invisible, took too hard [?] distraction Is if everyone went away Anyone, anyone, anyone, anyone? Is there anyone there? Fall back and into the quiet Where I've wanted you for so longMoving on You don't have a lot in common When the world If you don't even know my nameHow am I supposed to hear you calling If I can't hear a word you say? How am I supposed to hear you calling If I can't hear a word you say? Moving on You don't have a lot in common When the world If you don't even know my nameHow am I supposed to hear you calling If I can't hear a word you say? How am I supposed to hear you calling If I can't hear a word you say?

Lyrics provided by http://counterlikes.com/