

Once Again

Tristram

As the sun steps down
and escapes the day
we'll calmly walk away
walk away from the fray. When the structure falls and all else fails
we will build it once again. When the colors fade and it turns to gray
we'll calmly walk away
walk away from the fray
When structure falls
and all else fails
we will build it once again We can climb high higher than before.
We can stand by
while it burns to the floor.
Though we cannot fly
we will build and the wounds will mend as we build it once again! We can climb high higher than before.
We can stand by
while it burns to the floor.
We cannot fly
we will build and the wounds will mend
as we build it once again!
We can climb high
higher than before.
We can stand by
while it burns to the floor.
We cannot fly
we will build and the wounds will mend
as we build it once again!

Lyrics provided by <http://counterlikes.com/>