

Room to Fall (feat. Elohim)

Marshmello & Flux Pavilion

At the edge of the earth before you jump
Before you curse the world you come from When the sky is dark and its empty of stars And the edge of the blade could end who you are If you could look down, then you got more room to fall
If you could look down, then you haven't hit the bottom at all
If you could look down, then you got more room to fall
If you could look down, then you haven't hit the bottom at all (Hey) Then you got more room to fall Then you got more room to fall Then you got more room to fall Reaching the end, the end of your rope Eyes full of tears, drowning in hope
When your thoughts go dark and you don't wanna know What the future holds, you just wanna let go If you could look down, then you got more room to fall
If you could look down, then you haven't hit the bottom at all
If you could look down, then you got more room to fall
If you could look down, then you haven't hit the bottom at all (Hey) Then you got more room to fall Then you got more room to fall
If you could look down, then you got more room to fall
If you could look down, then you haven't hit the bottom at all
If you could look down, then you got more room to fall
If you could look down, then you haven't hit the bottom at all Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://counterlikes.com/>