

Her

Claire Voyant

No one knows her
I have seen you hold her
Trembling arms and fiery eyes
Things you tell her she wont remember
The moment is all she holds in hand I can see her smile
I can say her name
The face I see
We are both the same
If I am her
Why do I damn her
Am I hoping she will slowly slip away
Am I hoping she will drown and slip away Years have passed her
And many asked her
Like quiet knights in a church bells ring
If you take her you will never break her
Don't give her dreams
She will only slip away Am I hoping she will drown and slip away am I hoping I will only slip away
If only this time I would know
She fakes her mind out in an open door
She is waiting
And I know there is still some light around her eyes
She will make a sad song
And you knew it was not funny
She is only seeing you the way
The way a madman feels inside a lifeless body
And I know she is only seeing me the way... Am I hoping she will slowly slip away
Am I hoping I will drown and slip away
